Headmaster

MR. CLEVELAND

Headmaster

We are leaving this school looking forward with eager anticipation to what the world has in store for us. Some of us will go one way, others another, but we shall always look back with intense satisfaction and a touch of sentiment on the four years that we have spent together under the careful and helpful guidance of Mr. Cleveland, our principal.

For many years now he has been performing the difficult task as head of the school with a rare combination of patience, devotion, and ability that has aroused the admiration and affection of all those connected with him. He is never too busy to listen to a person's troubles and always ready with excellent advice.

Dedication

To

Mr. Thomas Long Bramhall

Wise and understanding counsellor, devoted friend, and inspiring leader, this Year Book is

Prologue

While hope may link us to the future, the link that binds us to the past is memory. To be able to remember and enjoy one's past years is to live twice.

To help you "call back yesterday and make time return" you have in the pages which lie before you a record of the activities of four years, literary, forsenic and athletic of the Cambridge High and Latin School Class of 1930. The Year Book Staff has endeavored to make this record as complete, as accurate, and as interesting as possible. We hope that the book which seems merely to record facts and data may also embody at least some of the personality and character of the class.

Perhaps these pages will serve their best purpose by recalling to you other delightful incidents of High School life which are not here recorded.

When time shall steal our years away
Perhaps our pleasures too,
The memory of these days will stay,
And present joys renew.

We are the children of science,
Of a steel-made era that rolls
With its great untiring mechanical hammers
Into the beat of our souls.

Driven together by power
That is linking the world's far spaces,
We came, discordant, unformed, untamed,
From a hundred hostile races.

We are the children of hundreds
Of cities and dreams and desires,
And each has religions distinct in appeal,
Each one, individual fires.

We seeds of so many conceptions
Yet met with one aim: to grow
In strength and the power to meet life well,
To learn, and to crave to know.

The school has taken us all
And fused us under its rule,
But for all the blending and breaking to shape,
It is we who were the school.

And we the indefinite mass
Whom others have striven to feed,
Whom others have dreamt for with ardent conviction
That finally we should be freed.

What mind of such infinite hope,
What wide comprehension of right,
What outlook that pierces through evil to good
Has brought us more close to the light?

It is a beauty impalpable,
Yet certain and real as the sun,
A truth that has drawn us together,
That would have us a consummate one.

Now we are ready to part,
We children of vision and strife,
From the school, from the staff that has guided us, moulded us
Strong for the challenge of life.

MARGOT CLARK.

Class Song

Forever onward moves the great life-mass
That we have watched, protected sure and strong,
But now the bars are down, and we too pass
To mingle in the ever-moving throng.

We marvel at the faces we behold,
For some are worn, forever looking back,
And others scan the empty dust for gold;
A handful, rapt in stars, beat out the track.

For ages numberless the steps have passed;
And some are eager, others lag behind.
We also join the mingled throng at last
To follow branching roads that we may find.

Before we go, we pause again to hear
The never-slackened pulse of countless feet.
But now the bars are down; the way lies clear;
And we are lost within the moving beat.

MARGOT CLARK.

When we entered Cambridge Latin in '26 we had, according to the seniors' kind criticisms, an inflated idea of our own importance. It was necessary to teach us our places, hence we spent most of the year as errand-boys for upper-classmen. We were brow-beaten into buying the "Review". We paid our class dues with laudable speed. At that time tardiness seemed to us a serious offense. Our one object in life was to get on the Honor Roll, but we found time, too, to attend the school games and were enthusiastic supporters of "our team". Our Freshmen class was noted chiefly for its debating team, Joseph Moran, George McInnes and Harold Rubin, who won signal victories over the Sophomores.

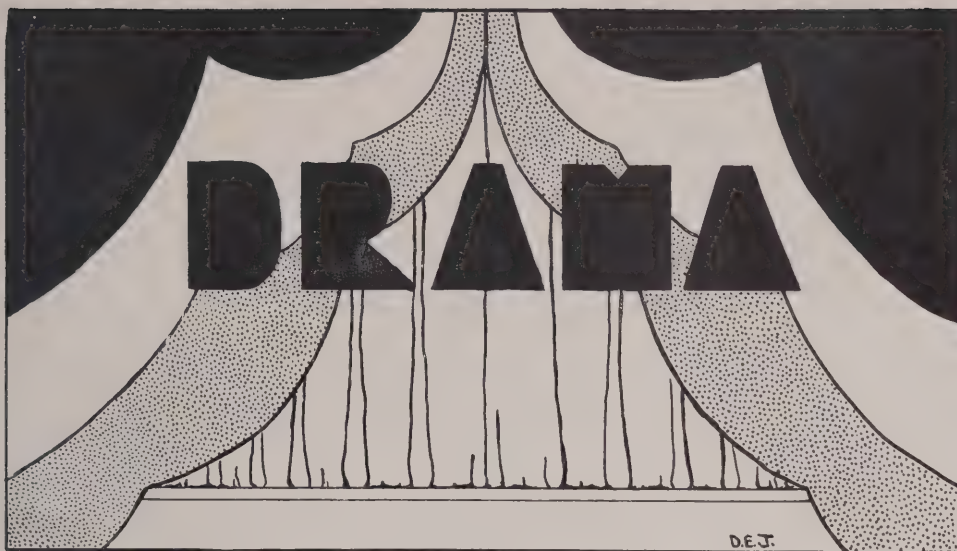

Sophomore year was, more or less one of transition. We patronized the Freshmen and looked with less awe upon the Seniors. The most important thing we learned to do sophomore year was to play tic-tac-too. What a consolation to our bruised and weary spirits was this inestimable pastime when we were obliged to stay seventh period for discipline. We filled our notebooks, the margins of our text books and all available blackboards with the tic-tac-too checkerboard, but in spite of such recreation we managed to flounder through departmentals and finals and found ourselves Juniors.

As Juniors we first assumed responsibilities and acted through the class as a whole. For the first time we elected class officers. Tommy Ryan was elected President; Gertrude Burns, Vice-President; John Lundergan, Treasurer; and Vera Johnson, Secretary. Our Pin Committee, which proved to be very capable, was composed of Mary Conlin, James Madigan, Ruth Dillon, Clara Flanders, Carol Waite and Elvira Belaskas. The Junior Prom, an outstanding social success held at the Hotel Commander, was managed by a very good reception committee, Ken Daly, Roger Brady, Bradley Britt, Agatha Crawley, and Robert Creel.

Senior year we began to realize our importance in the scheme of the universe and managed to enjoy ourselves in spite of our attendance at school. We again held class elections. Eddie Lynch was elected President; Tom Morgan, Vice-President; John Lundergan, Treasurer; and Eleanor Gray, Secretary. Our Reception Committee was Bill Fitzgerald, Frances Segal, Charlotte Cox, John Scully, Agatha Crawley, and Margery Flynn. At the time this was written the Senior Reception had not taken place.

The Drama Committee was Ned McKenney, Sally Muldoon, Lester Hershon, Marie O'Connell, Mary Groden. The Senior Drama "You and I" presented at Brattle Hall, was a rousing success. The outstanding actors were Ruth McDonald as the mother, and Edward Dillon as the Father. In April, the Liberty Prize Speaking contest was held. The first prize for the boys went to Joseph Olivo; the first prize for the girls, to Carol Waite.

This year our deans, Miss MacElroy and Mr. Bramhall tried out a new plan for assemblies. Each week a different home-room put on a program. The result was varied and entertaining. In March we started in our year-book; George McInnes was elected President. Now at the close of four years, we look back upon our accomplishments with some degree of complacency, willing to leave them on record as a standard for the oncoming senior class.

The class of 1930 may, indeed, be proud of the presentation of the Senior Drama under the able direction of Miss Hartigan.

The play "You and I" by Philip Barry is a story of a man whose financial difficulties compelled him to give up his ambition of becoming a great artist. He feels he needs his money in order to marry Nanny, the girl of his dreams. Their son, Ricky, has followed in his father's footsteps. He has aspired to become a great architect until his plans are upset when he discovers he is very much in love with Ronny, his next door neighbor. In the family argument which ensues, Ricky remains adamant, regardless of the fatherly advice given by Matey, who tells his son that, if he gives up then his plans to become an architect he will lose them forever. Matey knows this by experience, as he shows by relating the circumstances under which he gave up his ambition to become an artist twenty years before. Although the longing to paint has remained with him, he feels that he can never be a successful artist after twenty years in the soap business. How that man hates soap! When Nanny, self sacrificing as always, learns of his distaste for soap, she persuades him to take a vacation for a year in order to devote his time to painting. Paint Matey does, with surprising results. When he has finished his painting, for which the exquisite Etta has posed, Nancy and Geof, Matey's boyhood pal, conspire to secure a buyer for Matey's painting. The funds which the sale of the picture produce provide for Ricky's marriage. Thus the proverbial happy ending follows.

It is difficult for youth to impersonate maturity under any circumstances, but it is extremely difficult to do it, cleverly and realistically.

DRAMA CAST

Third Row: E. Dillon, R. Erickson.

Second Row: J. Scully, Miss Hartigan, R. Ross.

Front Row: J. Howell, R. MacDonald, E. Gray.

Superlatives cannot adequately express Edward Dillon's portrayal of the elderly Matey. Eddie actually lived the part — that of the man and that of the artist.

Nanny, Ricky's mother and Matey's self sacrificing wife, was played to perfection by Ruth McDonald. Throughout her very finished performance she retained the dignity and grace of a woman, and the maternal love for her son and his aspirations.

Would that I could utter the thoughts that run through my mind! In the love scenes, Eleanor Gray and John Scully charmed the audience. Eleanor, as Ronny Duane, was entrancing throughout, both in her snappy riding outfit and as the picturesque and beautiful Elizabethan damsel. Her dramatic acting with Matey as she pleads for "her Ricky" was superb.

John Scully gave us a fine rendition of the gay young lover, and of the clever and very young business man. He delighted the audience when he appeared in his dashing troubadour costume with a cap that reminded one of Peter Pan. The amusing little love ditty that he strummed as he sang was very refreshing. All in all, we found Ricky a handsome young hero who played his part with remarkable ability and talent.

G. T. Warren, our big business man who signed checks in a very off-hand and business-like manner, was played realistically by Randlett Ross. Ran made a big hit as the "Boss" of the situation.

Roy Erickson was captivating as the nonchalant novelist and boyhood friend of Matey who gave up "Marriage" for "Art." His clever lines amused the audience, but his fine acting delighted them.

As the maid Etta, Jean Howell was excellent. Her characterization would do credit to a professional actress. Her portrayal of the artist's model had the audience in gales of laughter. Her mockery of the elite was the highlight of the show.

Miss Hartigan and the cast are to be congratulated upon the great success of this year's Senior Drama and praise is also to be given to the decorations, made by the Art Department under the direction of Miss Willoughby and Mr. Doyle, which greatly added to the charm of the play.

Great Reunion Draws C. H. L. S. Grads

Cambridge awoke to new life today as hour by hour the toll of old citizens, home to attend the great reunion of the C. H. L. S., Class of '30, increases. Train after train is puffing into Cambridge with its load of joyous graduates. Airplanes and motors are swelling the total of visitors to Cambridge. Old graduates are holding joyous reunions on every street corner.

The achievements of the class of '30 have been truly miraculous. Rarely has any group achieved so great a number of successes in such a comparatively short time. Members of this class have become leaders in every profession in the country. They have conquered the fields of literature, art, politics, medicine, business, and sarily been scattered for some years, ar-the law. This great class which has necess-ranged the great reunion which is now attracting nation wide interest and atten-tion.

Mayor Lynch of Cambridge, who was one of the prime movers of this reunion, announced that he has received telegrams of felicitation from the President of the United States, the Prince of Wales, the President of France, the Admiral of the Swiss Navy, and all the crowned heads of Europe.

The banquet committee, headed by Tom Ryan, prominent local clubman and politician, and Gertrude Burns, popular young business woman, announce that a larger hall has had to be hired because of the many last minute arrivals. William Fitzgerald has been secured as the chief speaker. His topic will be The Art of April Fooling. Herb Brown and his orchestra will furnish the music.

New Harvard Plan

In an interview given to the Associated Press. Dr. Robert Creel, president of Harvard, announced his new Sanstud plan which will take the place of the present College Board Examinations. Dr. Creel told the reporters that the present system is inadequate, involving, as it does, the long and serious study of the candidates for entrance to Harvard. "Under my plan," he is quoted as saying to the reporters, "an electric eye will take the place of examinations. If the electric eye glows when the candidate recites Gunga Din, the candidate is admitted to Harvard."

Dr. Francis Cahill, first vice-dean, expressed himself as in complete accord with Dr. Creel.

Foreign Despatches

PUNJAKIA, SANSKITIA, (A. P.)

Bandits raided Punjakin and carried off two Americans to the hills to be held for ransom. The local authorities say that one of the two Americans was Edward Conley, vice-president and chief demonstrator of the International Spats Corporation, who had gone to Punjakkia to make the natives spats-conscious. The other American was Lester Hershon who is reported to be a salesman for the Acme Bomb Company. It is hoped that Mr. Hershon had his sample case with him at the time of his capture.

Sports! BOXING

Hectic Struggle between John (Billard Q.) Hoffman and Amado (Allamangle) Manganello ends in draw.

After narrowly escaping a knockout in the first two rounds, Billard Q. Hoffman, the Melrose Terror, and contender for the sashweight title, came back to even the decision with Allamangle Manganello, the Cambridge Phantom in 10 gruelling rounds.

During the first 2 rounds, the terror was doing some lovable boxing—he was either hugging his opponent or kissing the canvas. He was floored for the count of 8 in the first round when he accidentally ran into a post while fleeing from the Phantom. After these disastrous first rounds, Billard Q. evened the fray when he repeatedly smashed Allamangle's fists with his jaw. The fans booed the decision and of course the boxers. The purse was held up by the boxing commission and found to be empty. However, this amount was ample for the struggle they put up. The preliminaries were called off on account of wet grounds.

Keep Your Mouth Shut.

Dr. George McInnes, B. U. G., and Dr. Joseph Moran, N. U. T., today returned from Germany where they have been studying with Professor Einstein. They announced their new theory which annihilates both space and time. Dr. Moran approved to the reporters assembled at the dock that, although he is not to start for the reunion until tomorrow, he is already here in Cambridge. Two of the reporters, Francis Curtis and Irving Kendall, were so overcome that they fell overboard from the dock. On being rescued, they said that the cause of their violent emotion was the remembrance of all that they suffered for being tardy back in the days before Dr. McInnes theory was discovered.

THE KLAHOWJAHA BJUSTOFF CLUB

Another successful year may be recorded in the journals of our club—a year which has been spent in doing charity work as well as bringing a group of girls more closely together by the common ties of work and pleasure.

We feel proud of our accomplishments this year. They include two large bridge parties, one at Brattle Hall and another at the home of one of our members, the profits of which went toward our charity welfare fund. Another source of earning money for this fund was Talent Night. Both at Thanksgiving and at Christmas we supplied food for more than forty people, distributing dinners to needy families who were recommended by the school nurse. Throughout the year we supplied children who were greatly in need with clothing.

Our social activities included a Christmas party at Oxford Courts, a dance at Charlotte Cox's home, various small bridges at the members' homes, besides toboggan and theater parties.

We attribute much of our success this year to our advisors Miss Hartigan and Miss Ford. The officers during 1929 and 1930 were Katherine Haugh, president, Mary Groden, treasurer, and Betty Manker, secretary.

THE HOME ECONOMICS CLUB

The principal activities of the Home Economics Club included for this year, a theater party at the Repertory Theater, a visit to the plant of the Ward Baking Company, a talk on "Clothing" by Miss Hugh from Simmons' College, which was followed by a formal tea served in the dining room, a visit to the Cambridge Hospital, a St. Valentine party, which included a short play and musical selections, a talk on "Foods" by Miss Galvin from John P. Squires and Company, a visit to the plant of John P. Squires, a visit to the Modern Priscilla Proving Plant in Newton, a visit to the Museum of Fine Arts, Boston, and the awarding of a gift to the pupil who has excelled during the year in the work of Home Economics.

In all of our undertakings we were directed by our advisers, Miss Harrington, Miss Morgan, and Miss Mary Breau.

The officers who have been so efficient in directing our interests were Pres. Rebecca Leighton; Vice-Pres. Mary Keif; Treas. Josephine Kearney; Sec'y, Edna Skelley.

THE REVIEW

When we publish the fifth and last issue as a "Tercentenary Number" in commemoration of the event to be celebrated this year in Massachusetts, the "Review" will terminate another successful year.

The management of a school publication is by no means an easy task. Hard work and extreme care must be put forth at all times. This year we have been fortunate in having a staff of energetic and conscientious boys and girls who did not shirk from going to painstaking troubles to secure such results as would be worthy of our publication and of our school. The most serious obstacle that they had to confront was the lack of sufficient good material for the literary department, due to the fact that pupils were too modest or not interested enough to submit their articles. In spite of this, the literary editors have managed to turn out a department that is both interesting in its contents and commendable in its quality. Two contests were held during the year, which brought out good material, and this indicated that while there is talent in our school, it needs prodding to bring it out.

By dint of hard work, the editors of the other departments have succeeded in making the "Review" interesting to the whole school. In addition, the financial and business sides of our publication were most efficiently managed.

All in all, the year 1929-1930 has been quite satisfactory for the "Review." Much less would have been accomplished if it were not for our genial faculty adviser, Miss Hardy to whom the whole staff is sincerely grateful for valuable suggestions and sympathetic guidance.

To the graduating class, the "Review" wishes the best of luck and success. To those who will take our places, we express a hope that they will derive the same enjoyment that was ours.

COACH, LEANDER MACDONALD

FOOTBALL TEAM

Third Row: Sheehan, Coach, MacDonald, Coach, Markson, Good, Sullivan, Allen. Lovett, McDavitt, Cohen, Curran, Mgr.
Second Row: Welch, Galvin, McSweeney, Reardon, Lekakas, Muello, Ross, Capt., Seymourian, Brown, Kendall, W. Swisher, Buckley.

When Coach MacDonald called his candidates together for the initial football practice he found that the "Headmaster Three Year Rule" had wrecked a possible championship team. Six out of fourteen veterans were declared ineligible. A new backfield had to be made out of green material. Our coach did a wonderful job, judging by the battle our boys put up against the veteran Boston College High team, only to have his hopes blasted again the following week by our defeat at the hands of the Salem team.

When the marks came out, six more players were declared ineligible. The whole team had to be built over again, and it was no wonder that the season was so disastrous. Captain Ross, Reardon, Muello, Brown, Kendall, Leahy, Sheehan, and Seymourian gave their all, but the odds were too great for a successful year.

The only consolation that we got out of the year was the choice of the suburban coaches when they picked Ross for tackle of their mythical team.

Letters were awarded to the following:

Captain Ross, Captain elect Reardon, Brown, Buckley, Kendall, Seymourian, Leahy, Sheehan, Muello, Allen, Lovett, W. Swisher, D. Swisher, Cohen, MacDavitt, Lekakas, Palmer.

HOCKEY TEAM

Top Row: Bernard, Mahoney, Blaise, Sullivan, Lovett, Woods.

Second Row: Mullen, Edmonds, Kelliher, MacDonald, Coach.

First Row: Morgan, Reardon, Cosgrove, Swisher, Kendall, Captain, Burke, Borejson.

HOCKEY

For the first time in ten years Coach Leander MacDonald was unable to bring his boys to a point where they were eligible to enter the Round Robin Series.

Every veteran was lost by the new ruling, even the substitutes, so a complete new team had to be built. Boys that had never had the experience of playing were used. A very credible performance was given by these boys. A foundation was laid for future teams, and under the guidance of our great coach, it is expected that Cambridge Latin will again take its place next year at the head of the Suburban League where it belongs.

Swisher was elected captain for next year, and letters were awarded to the following:

Captain Kendall, Captain elect Swisher, Blais, Bernard, Burke, Cosgrove, Edmonds, Kelliher, Lovett, Borejson, Mahoney, Reardon, Sullivan, and Harenanian.

BASKETBALL TEAM

Third Row: Rogert, Ranieri, Lekakas, Cohen, Beaton.

Second Row: Bergin, Mgr., Muti, Rynne, Matursevitch, Daly, Curran.

First Row: Plausky, Katz, Rynne, Lamkin, Blair, Finstein.

BASKETBALL

Coach Kozlowski found himself in the same position as the mentor of football and hockey did when the season started. He had to start with a complete new team and build from the freshmen up, in order to have a team at all. The foundation has been laid and championship teams will follow as they have done in the past. The following are the letter men: Matursevitch, Plausky, Blair, Muti, Cohen, Lekakas, Vaughan, Beaton, Rynne, Finstein, Ranieri, Daly, Rogert, Bergin (Mgr.).

BASEBALL TEAM

Back Row: Ross, MacDonald, Coach, Barry, Kelly, Blair, Mullen.

Third Row: Keefe, Daley, Sheehan, McCarthy, Skorski, Argenzio, Rogert, Buckley.

Second Row: Muti, Reardon, Finstein, Kendall, LaRond.

Front Row: Morgan, Carson, Casey, Lekakas, Conlin, Sullivan.

Kneeling: Plausky.

BASEBALL

Fifty-four candidates responded to the first call for practice. While only five letter men are left from last year's team, Coach MacDonald seems pleased with the prospects, and as this seems to be the year to rebuild he can be depended upon to turn out the best team possible. We look forward to a successful year. Casey has been elected Captain. The letter men returning are Captain Casey, a pitcher and third baseman, LaRond, the hard hitting fielder, who broke his ankle last year, Lekakas, the fence breaking pitcher, Sullivan, the peppy little second baseman, and Finstein, our catcher.

GIRLS' ATHLETIC ASSOCIATION

The Girls' Athletic Association has very successfully completed another year under the indefatigable work of the officers and their advisor, Miss Brown. The object of this Association is to gather within its folds as many girls as possible and to give them a good time. The club desires especially to have as members, girls who do not participate in athletics. Thus far, this aim has been accomplished.

This year the G. A. A. has about two hundred members. Most of these are freshmen and sophomores.

The year began with an unusually successful freshman party, which was followed by two dances, a girl dance and a boy dance. Besides these affairs we enjoyed basketball games, swimming competitions, hikes, and baseball.

The G. A. A. is an independent club. The expenses incurred during the year by athletics, such as letters, silver basketballs for the winners of the class championship, and other miscellaneous expenses are paid by the association out of the treasury.

At the end of the year, a picnic is given at Miss Brown's home in Kendall Green.

SENIOR GIRLS' BASKETBALL TEAM

Second Row: E. Wilson, H. Klimavich, A. Petruzys, M. Leighton.

Front Row: B. Stromme, L. Margosian, M. Parker, G. Burns, O. Thibideau.

THE SENIOR GIRLS' BASKETBALL TEAM

The Senior Girls' Basketball Team of 1930 was exceedingly unfortunate in losing a number of its best players at the beginning of the season. But to offset this mischance came other players of equal merit, so that the team was not handicapped by such a lack of players as in other years. The Juniors, winners of the class games, are to be congratulated on their playing.

GIRLS' VARSITY BASKETBALL TEAM

Third Row: G. Lancaster, M. MacDonald, C. Cormier, M. Leighton, G. Dainis, B. Stromme.

We, the undersigned, in poor health (caused by excess study) and in unsound mind do hereby make the following bereavements. We revoke any wills, dog licenses, or income tax reports made previous to this document.

First — We bequeath 27 cigar certificates and 3.5 coupons to Mr. McDonald to be used sparingly for the purchase of new material for the coming football season.

Second — We leave the huge sum of $.35 to be spent in providing the necessary equipment for a course in pool and billiards for the freshmen. Continual study in this course will make them all masters of "English" when they become seniors.

Third — To Mr. Derry, we bequeath all literal and inter-linear Latin translations. (We ask his pardon if a page or two is missing).

Fourth — To Garrett Foley, we leave all stray C. H. L. S. athletic pins. However, if owner's initials are on said pins, they must be returned on penalty of fine of 19 cents or six seventh periods in Room 52, or neither or both, as explained in the Tables of Logarithms, page 4, twelfth to sixth verses, Section 19, Row BB, Seat 102 — Everybody hold his own ticket.

Fifth — To the class of 1931, we leave some of our surplus school spirit. This could be used to decorate the bleachers at Russell Field.

Sixth — With great regret, we leave those lacking sufficient credits to our dear Alma Mammy.

Seventh — We bequeath boxing gloves to those who might care to go tobogganing with the K. B. Club (Odd sizes and shapes).

Eighth — To the Chemistry Classes, we bequeath the problem of solving the specific gravity of orange juice.

Ninth — To the talkative Freshmen (if there be any), we leave a sound proof corridor.

Tenth — We leave a limited supply of Season Tickets admitting one to all Seventh Periods. (Best seats to late-comers; so come early and obtain an obscure seat.)

Eleventh — We bequeath a carton of Murads to the incoming Freshmen to give them practice in being nonchalant when accosted in the corridor by teachers.

And now, having disposed of all our possessions which we value and many which we do not, we believe that it would be best to legalize this priceless document by our signature on this 17th day of May, in the year of our Lord, one thousand, nine hundred and thirsty.

(Signed)Class of 1930.

Epilogue

On the threshold of new and strange adventures we pause to look back at these last four years of high school life. Here we have found wise guides, and here under their tutelage we have grown from hesitating, uncertain children to youths equipped for cooperation in the world's work. During these four years our immaturity has been tempered by disillusionment and responsibility, and yet our experience has been increased with much of pleasure. Here at school we have found new friends, tasted something of the delight of learning, have learned new truth and beauty. We have enjoyed too, comradeship and laughter and high spirits. Regretful at having to leave her now we are grateful for what our Cambridge High and Latin School has given us.
